***RED FLAG WARNING UNTIL 9PM***

WEATHER DISCUSSION: Another HEADS UP day with critical to extreme fire weather conditions. Little change is expected today in the overall weather as high pressure remains overhead. In addition to hot and dry conditions...afternoon winds will once again be gusty as the sea breeze kicks in. Strongest winds will be over the upper slopes...aligned valleys and ridge tops. Little to no relief is expected tonight with another round of poor humidity recoveries with mild overnight lows.

WEATHER FORECAST:

INPUTS

WEATHER SUMMARY

Refer to Weather Forecast for details: RED FLAG WARNING IN EFFECT UNTIL 9 PM PDT TONIGHT.

Mostly sunny. Areas of smoke...especially in lower drainages and canyons. Max Temp – 83-103°. Min RH – 8-17%.

Ridgetop Winds – NW 6-12 mph in AM becoming 10-20 mph with gusts to 30 in PM.

Slope/Valley Winds – Downslope 2-5 mph in AM becoming SW 4-8 mph with gusts to 13-22 in PM.

FUELS

Very heavy loading of decadent brush (chaparral, ceanothus, chemise, scrub oak, Manzanita) (FM5, SH5, SH7) across the entire fire area, 15 foot high with Big Cone Doug Fir in the drainage bottoms and ridge tops above 4000'.

Minimum fine fuel moisture: 2-5%, 1000 hour: 5-8%, Live fuel moisture: 60-65%. ERC's are running above 90%.

OUTPUTS - FIRE BEHAVIOR

GENERAL:

Local Thresholds for active fire behavior: Winds (over 15 mph), RH (less than 25%), Temperature (over 90°) and BI (over 201). All criteria have been exceeded.

Yesterday fire behavior was extreme, with rapid rates of spread and stupendous flame lengths. At 1600 the fire made a significant run. In a one hour period in Divisions L/M with ROS of 1000 ch/hr (14-18 mph) and a spotting distance of 2 miles under the influence of sustained 20 mph winds.

Expect today's fire behavior to be similar to yesterday. An early morning inversion may occur below 1500 ft resulting in decreased fire activity at the lower elevations until the inversion breaks, around 1000-1200.

Following the lifting of the inversion, expect the fire activity to increase dramatically with the potential to develop a well defined convection column. Expect the fire to spread actively on all fronts.

Ridgetop winds will be steady and fast, increasing in speed through the day peaking around 1400, however winds in the drainage will be terrain driven and very gusty especially between the hours of 1200 and 1600.

Maximum Fire Behavior (head fire): Rate of Spread: 100-250 c/h (3 mph). Flame Length: 30 - 150 ft, Probability of Ignition: 90%. Max spotting distance up to 1 mile. Predicted BI – 262 (up 9)

SPECIFIC:

NORTH FLANK – The fire in the Acton area has spread down to the lower slopes adjacent to the road; however remain heads up for the fire spread to the west. Last night's down canyon flow may have move the fire in a westerly, down canyon direction in to an area of rather heavy fuel loading.

WEST AND SOUTH FLANKS - The fire will continue spreading very actively southwest towards the subdivisions all along I-215 from Alta Dena to Little Tujunga. Be prepared for short duration upslope runs as a result of roll out and side drainages where the fire can make short pulses upslope.

EAST FLANK – Expect the fire to continue to spread actively as it moves towards Mt Wilson and beyond. Fire behavior could become extreme in areas where the winds and slope come into alignment.

FEEDBACK: Collect WX obs hourly and turn in to FBAN or IMET at end of shift. Include fire behavior.

AIR OPERATIONS

- Possible inversion, lifting around 1100. Smoky condition on the north side of fire limiting operations.

SAFETY.

- Division/Group/Crew Supervisor's: Use the information in this forecast, weather obs and your past and current on-site observations to ensure you know the most accurate and up-to-date expected fire behavior.
